CLASS HISTORY

In September 1971 the Class of 1974 entered Natick High School and like so many classes before it, for the first few weeks became hopelessly lost in the almost endless maze of corridors that make up the school. Quickly however a Sophomore learned that if he had a common human malady the nurse's office offered no relief and if he had a common human urge the locked lavatories offered no relief either. We eventually became hardened to teachers' demands for passes, librarians' demands for silence, and class officers' demands for dues!

Our years of walking the halls of Natick High School brought forth some latent talents that most of us weren't aware we possessed; expertise in penmanship that we acquired over three years of forging passes which culminated in a magnificent display of handwriting on the Senior Lounge wall, inventing a new card game, "26 card whist" which became necessary after Mr. Sticklor confiscated the other half of the deck, and all the exercise we missed from skipping gym was made up by the sprinting we did past hall monitors!

Naturally we spent a good amount of our time at NHS on academics and not without just reward. What Mr. Hennigar's highly statistical speech at last year's Honor Society induction ceremony boiled down to, was that the Class of '74' had a higher percentage of its students selected as members of that very elite group than any other class has had in the annals of Natick High history.

There were individual honors as well. Peter Biagetti, Jay Golan, Gary Guarino, Susan Kruger, Debbie Paquette, and Mary Young were all chosen as National Merit Finalists. Andrea Armour was recognized with honor by the Westinghouse Talent Search for her project on luminescence. Susan Kruger won first place at our own science fair and Paul Urbanek placed first in the South Shore Regional Science Fair at Bridgewater State with his project on surface tension. During our Junior Year Deidre Doran placed in the top one percent in the National Spanish Examination thereby winning a trip to Mexico to continue her study of the language over the summer and this year Linda Fournier won a national prize in the Spanish IV competition.

Susan Geissler had the unusual distinction of winning, for two years in a row, the V.F.W. "Voice of Democracy" contest, and continuing on to regional competition. Other prize winners included Lisa Alintuck, who won the art contest for the cover of the town report, Susan Kruger, who won a trip to Belgium in a creative writing competition and the Wheaton Club of Wellesley prize book, Jay Golan who won the Harvard prize book, John Hahn who was selected as a trombonist for the All-State Orchestra, and David Champion who was selected by the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra to travel as a member to Colombia, South America. This year, a number of Rotary Club Work Awards were given to seniors Richard Martin, Chris Dirienzo, Harold Gurney, Steven Arena, David Cowern, Susan Chouinard, and Robert Carroll. The John Hancock Outstanding Business Students for this year are Sue Tatten and Betsy Hutchins, and the Lester-Hill Corporation Employee of the Year is Gabriella Smith.

Our learning came not only from books, but from the people around the school as well. We were fortunate this year to have an exchange teacher from England, Mr. Gilkes, and two A.F.S. students, Kelly Ntagozera from Uganda, and Scott Wetzel from Oregon, all of whom brought touches of their own cultures to the high school.

Even though many of us spent almost as much time playing athletics as we did studying, our sports teams were not quite as successful as our students were academically. MVP Chip Child led the soccer team to its traditionally mediocre record. Then the hockey team, led by Dave Yancey as MVP and Jim Duffy as a Bay State League All-Star, won one game and finished last. With almost undefeated MVP Steve Nicholson, the wrestling team decided not to show up the hockey team's record and also finished last. To complete the triple crown and to display that what most coaches like is consistency the gymnastics team also occupied last place in the Bay State League standings.

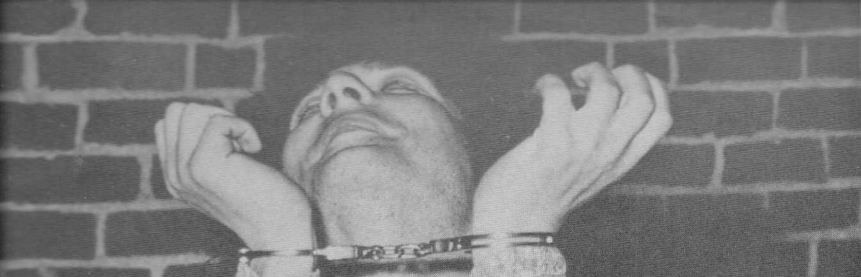

The girls' gymnastics team, led by MVP Sue Chouinard, the girls' tennis team, captained by MVP Andrea Armour, and the girls' basketball, softball, and field hockey teams all succeeded in not showing up any of the boys' teams "wonderful" records. There were though, a few teams, especially the cheerleading squad, captained by Tricia Breen and Joanne Indelicato, that did represent Natick with winning records. Led by Tricia Breen, who was chosen as the leading supporter of sports at NHS, the cheerleaders placed first in the Bay State League Tournament. The boys' basketball team, led by captain Ron Davids who was chosen as the Outstanding Sportsman of the Team, and All-Star Chip Child, reached the finals of the Bay State Tourney.

Football's MVP and All-Star John Collier, and All-Stars Dan McSweeney and Chris Pallotta along with outdoor track MVP Dave Yancey, led their respective teams to the best two records at NHS this year. The baseball team, with pitcher Tom Sullivan as MVP, ended with a well-earned 10-8 record in a tough Bay State League. The boys' tennis team, with the second best record in its history, and led by MVP Neal Rockowitz, made the state tournament for the third consecutive year. A much improved golf team also finished high in the league, led by captain and MVP Al Comeau, and finally outstanding skater, Paula Ziegler reached the New England Regional Finals in figure skating competition.

In the realm of extra-curricular activities, clubs seemed to suffer the most. The memberships and varieties of these once prosperous organizations saw a steady decline during our years at Natick High. There were however, some tremendously successful exceptions. The Competitive Speech Club continued to be the most victorious, yet least recognized team at NHS. Led by Jeff Snyder, Bonnie Duprey, Jeff Miller, Sally Gooding and Howard Stone, all of whom were Juniors at the time, the Speech Team captured the Massachusetts State Championship in 1973. This year with medal winning performances from Susan Brodsky, Donna Henry, Claire Brown, Carol Allen, Howard Stone, the team repeated as State Champs. In national competition the team sent Bonnie Duprey, Peter Biagetti and Jeff Phillips to the Catholic nationals in New Orleans, while Susan Geissler earned a trip to the Forensic League Nationals in Dallas, Texas.

Our class has also been active in dramatics. In our Sophomore year Stephanie Cochran starred in "Brigadoon" and a number of us participated in "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Wondering '72' ". "Carousel" in our Junior year featured Cindy Cobb, Anne Foster, and Pam Brown. "Trojan Women" again featured Stephanie Cochran and included Bonnie Duprey and Susan Geissler. This year on stage there was the all-school play "Dames at Sea" starring Cindy Cobb. The Senior Class Play, "Charley's Aunt", starring Howie Stone, Peter Biagetti, Susan Brodsky, Susan Free, Susan Geissler, Tom Gillis, Jeff Phillips, and Bonnie Dupré was a great success. The Metro production, "Black Coffee" displayed the talents of seniors Carman Shearer, Dana Morris, Sheila Nelson, Marshall Mills, Kim Craig, Dan Gomes, and Richard Wheeler. The Theater Arts Class presented the comedy "Star Spangled Girl" with Howard Stone, Ken Katz and Michele Murphy in the leading roles and the Competitive Speech Team sponsored the experimental play "Self Accusations" with seniors Jeff Phillips and Sally Gooding.

The concert choir has also given some fine performances. In the past two years there have been two exchange concerts which have been highly successful. Combining the strength of our own chorus with a number of voices from outside the school, the Music Department produced two fine concerts, the Faure Requiem and the Schubert Mass, quite a change from the "Sacrifice" concerts that were so common during the three years that we have been here.

Our high school years have seen a period of change that was nationwide. In our Sophomore year eighteen year old voter registration went into effect for the first time giving many high school students the responsibility of the voting privilege. Because of this we were blessed with the visits of several politicians. Senator Edward Burke came to the Modern Problems Classes, Senator Edward Kennedy spoke at an all-school assembly and Attorney General Quinn this year gave a very early campaign speech!

This year the students organized The Student Committee for Political Action to voice their views on relevant governmental issues. During the last town election all candidates were invited to the first Town Government Day held at Natick High School to give Seniors the opportunity to quiz candidates for whom they might be voting. The annual Girls' and Boys' States, held to make students more aware of the workings of government were well attended with representatives Lisa Giallonardo, Ronnie Davids, Peter Biagetti, and Randy Perry.

Another way in which we have integrated student reports with those of town officials was exemplified in the work done by the Advisory Council to the school committee. A recently formed group of five students meet with the school committee every month to discuss ways to improve the school. In an era of walkathons, bikeathons, and wakeathons many students at NHS donated much of their time to helping others in the community. Others preferred to become involved within the school itself and helped with the development of the new Walk-in Center, a counseling service for students.

Our years at Natick High have also seen a period of continuous change for the school itself. We are the first class to have survived three years on a rotating schedule, the first to have had the 'open campus' plan for seniors in effect the three years that we have been here and we were the first Sophomores to be given the privilege of independent study if we maintained a 'C' average and the first Juniors to see the grade requirement for independent study abolished.

We were given more and more responsibility in the hopes that we would somehow magically profit from it. This raised some new disciplinary problems that to date have not been fully solved! In our Sophomore year the solution was the "Wellesley Plan", a system of demerits, detentions, and notices to parents that proved less than effective in preventing kids from skipping classes. In the past two years, inside suspension, a sort of solitary confinement for a given period of time, has become the common mode of punishment and has become an institution that many of us would rather not remember.

When we entered high school it was at the end of a wave of protest that swept the nation in the turbulent "60's". In our Sophomore year there were a number of incidents that reflected this. As part of an optional assembly program such people as John Kerry, an anti-war veteran came to speak to us. Later in the year, when a new 'buddy' system for attending assemblies was initiated the students balked at the added restrictions, resenting being treated, as they said, "like kindergarteners". The next day there was a massive demonstration in front of the school. When told to disperse nearly two hundred of the students marched in protest through the streets of Natick. The end result of this protest was that for most of our time at NHS, assemblies were virtually non-existent.

However in the last three years we have moved away from a protest era into a period of foundation building. While the classes before us were bent on sudden, drastic changes within the school system, our class has channelled its efforts into maintaining privileges that the classes before us had abused. Our student leaders have been involved, not in the large earth shattering type of change that previous classes had attempted to institute, but in trying to initiate smaller, more constructive changes.

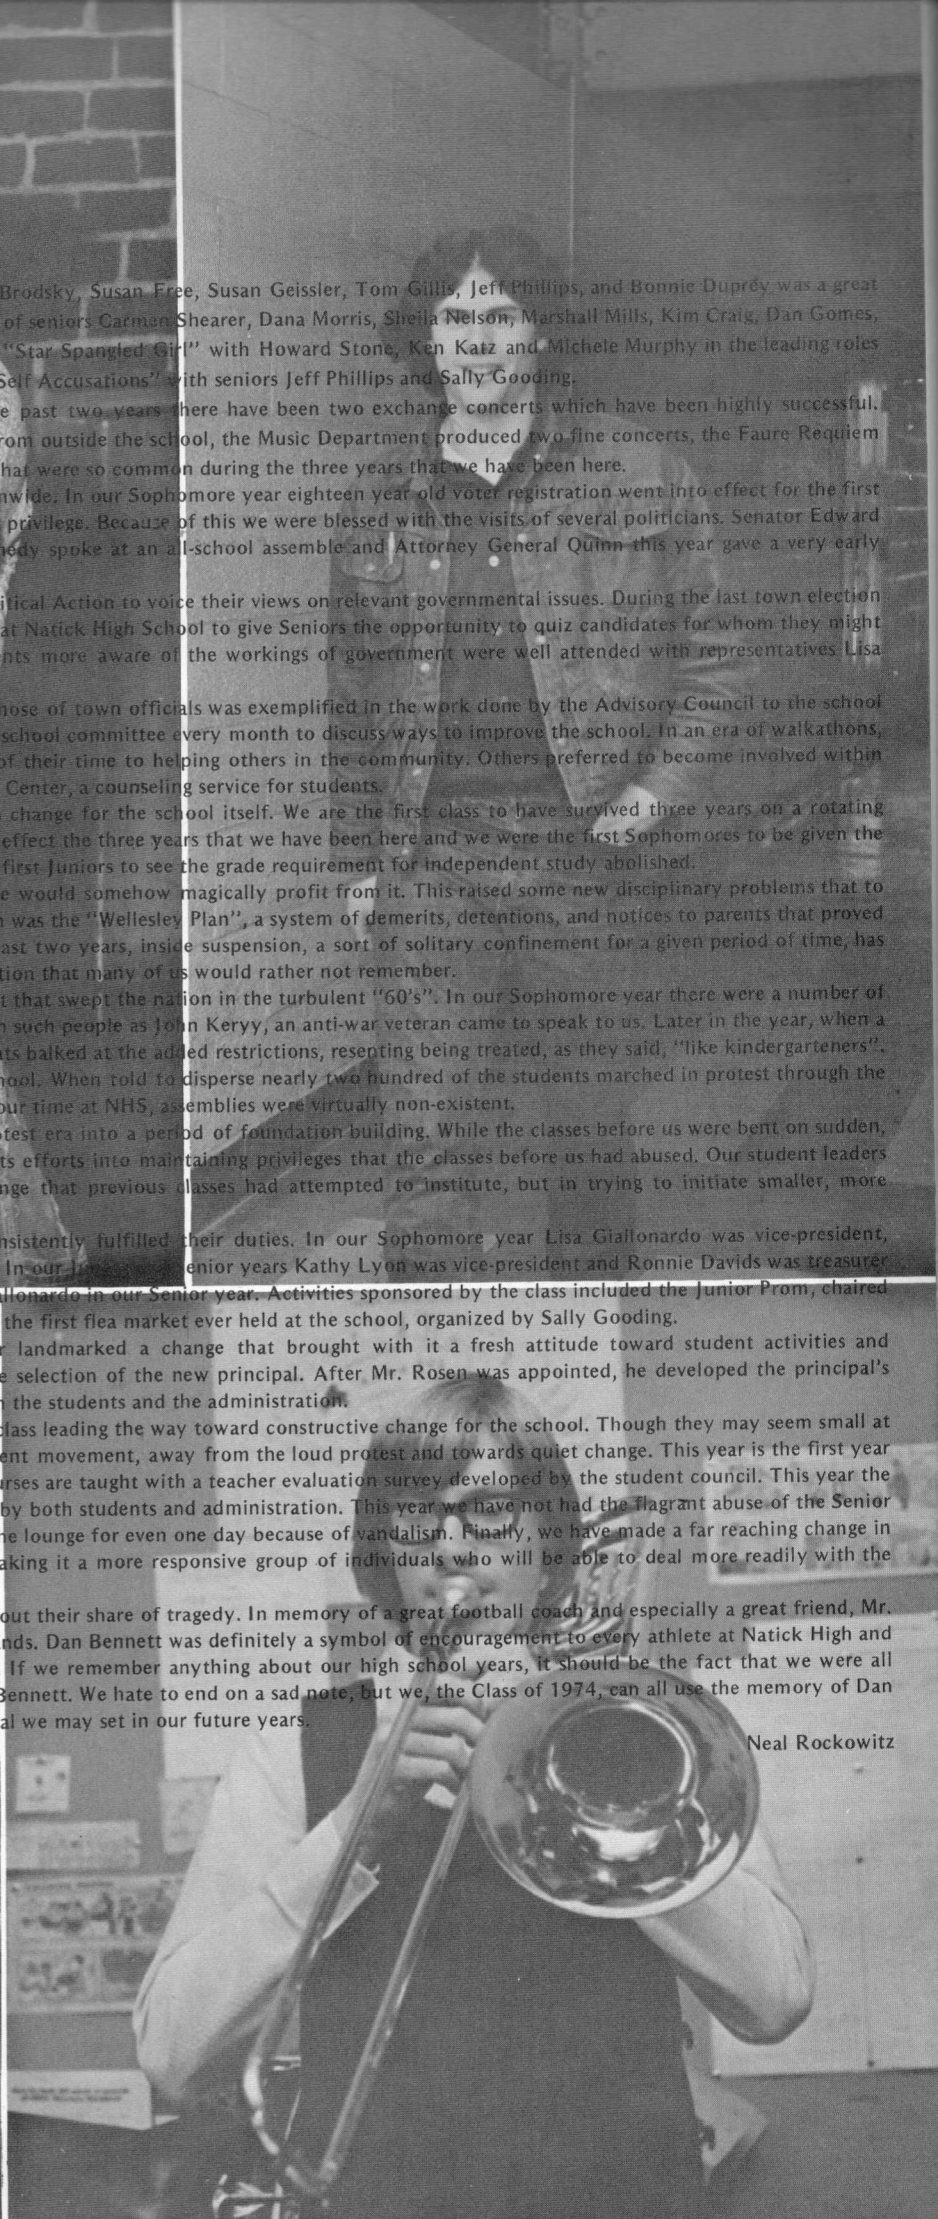

Led by Peter Biagetti for all three years, our officers have consistently fulfilled their duties. In our Sophomore year Lisa Giallonardo was vice-president, Stephanie Cochran was secretary, and Bonnie Dupré was treasurer. In our Junior and Senior years Kathy Lyon was vice-president and Ronnie Davids was treasurer with the office of secretary shifting from Sally Gooding to Lisa Giallonardo in our Senior year. Activities sponsored by the class included the Junior Prom, chaired by Kathy Lyon, with the theme "You made me so very happy", and the first flea market ever held at the school, organized by Sally Gooding.

The change of principals at the beginning of our Senior year landmarked a change that brought with it a fresh attitude toward student activities and responsibilities. We were the first class to have students assist in the selection of the new principal. After Mr. Rosen was appointed, he developed the principal's advisory board that opened new channels of communication between the students and the administration.

Indeed we had many firsts this year with members of the Senior class leading the way toward constructive change for the school. Though they may seem small at first, our accomplishments seem to be the beginning of a new student movement, away from the loud protest and towards quiet change. This year is the first year that the students have had an organized voice in the manner that courses are taught with a teacher evaluation survey developed by the student council. This year the cafeteria was finally kept clean with a new 'dime' plan agreed upon by both students and administration. This year we have not had the flagrant abuse of the Senior Lounge that other classes have had, and we did not have to close the lounge for even one day because of vandalism. Finally, we have made a far reaching change in converting the student council to a volunteer council, hopefully making it a more responsive group of individuals who will be able to deal more readily with the problems of the students who are to follow us.

It seems though that our high school years could not pass without their share of tragedy. In memory of a great football coach and especially a great friend, Mr. Dan Bennett, all sports teams at Natick High will wear black arm Bands. Dan Bennett was definitely a symbol of encouragement to every athlete at Natick High and hopefully to all students with their endeavors outside of athletics. If we remember anything about our high school years, it should be the fact that we were all fortunate enough to spend at least two and one-half years with Mr. Bennett. We hate to end on a sad note, but we, the Class of 1974, can all use the memory of Dan Bennett's extremely productive life as an inspiration to reach any goal we may set in our future years.

Neal Rockowitz

Dedication

Mr. Charles Marso

In September of 1973, a former faculty member of Natick High School, Mr. Charles Marso, passed away at the age of 60. In the late 1920's, Mr. Marso was a student himself at Natick High and became a star pitcher on the school baseball team. He made All-Scholastic and surprised everyone with his exceptional ability to hit and field, as well as pitch, in spite of his handicap. He continued playing baseball at St. John's Prep where he graduated in 1932. He went to Boston College on scholarship and by the time he graduated in 1936, he had a 23-1 record.

After graduating from college, Mr. Marso was offered the opportunity to play for the Boston Braves but he chose instead to teach biology at Natick High. Under his coaching, the baseball teams won ten Bay State League titles for Natick.

Mr. Marso resigned as coach in 1954, but he continued to have an active interest in high school baseball, and was particularly fond of Natick's 1973 baseball team. He was admired and respected by his students, his fellow teachers and by all those who knew of his courage and determination. After teaching at Natick High for over thirty years, he retired in 1972. We, the class of 1974, dedicate our yearbook to this very great man who will long be remembered.

And thus this man died, leaving his death for an example of a noble courage,

—O. T. Apocrypha: II. Maccabees, vi, 31.

ADMINISTRATION AND SCHOOL COMMITTEE

This year the resignation of Mr. Howard V. Hennigar began a major turnover in the administration. Mr. Harold Rosen became Natick High's new principal, Mr. Francis Collins was appointed as vice-principal and Mr. Edward Bransfield took his place as Head of the Math Department. In addition to these changes, there was added to the administration Mr. St. Cyr as administrative intern.

School committee elections this year also brought about some changes. Newcomers Pamela Kaufman, who was supported by the Student Committee for Political Action; junior class vice-president Mark Huard, who replaced junior Mike Sharon; and Mr. Paul Peters all joined incumbents Kirk Joslin, J. Vincent Saunders, Paul Ambler, Daniel Flynn, Superintendent Dr. Winston Wetzel, and Dr. Gail Cosgrove, new head of the school committee.

Retires

After sixteen years as principal and many more as a guidance counselor and teacher, Howard V. Hennigar retired from Natick High School in November of 1973. During those years there were numerous problems which he had to face. He always tried to be honest and fair in his dealings with students and faculty.

He was a man with an outstanding background. He was president of the Massachusetts Secondary School Principal's Association, Director of the Natick Rotary Club, and Chairman of the National Honor Society Committee of Massachusetts. He was a graduate from Whitman High School, Northeastern University, Tufts University and was certified by the Harvard University School of Administration and served as a Lieutenant Commander in the Navy during World War II.

Many students were not aware of the fact that Mr. Hennigar was responsible for some of the programs in which they participated, such as Modified Open Campus, Work-Study Programs, and diversified elective courses. He also supported the "House Plan", believing that it could help solve many of the problems caused by the rapidly growing population of Natick High.

Mr. Rosen, who was a close co-worker of Mr. Hennigar's for many years, says that perhaps Mr. Hennigar's greatest contribution was guiding Natick High School and helping it to retain its stability through many years of tension and pressure when changes in the educational system were coming rapidly. Mr. Rosen compliments his "forward-looking approach", and his role in expanding the curriculum so that it could be more flexible. Mr. Rosen said that above all, "I respect the man very much. He was able to change with the times and deal with innovations as they came."

1974 Class Advisors

Mrs. Robbins

Mr. Smith

We, the class of 1974, would like to express our sincere appreciation to two advisors who have given of themselves unselfishly over the past three years. Mr. Roger Smith, of the Industrial Arts Department, and Mrs. Martha Robbins, of the English Department (better known to us as Ms. Curran), have helped us as a class and have offered individual guidance to many.

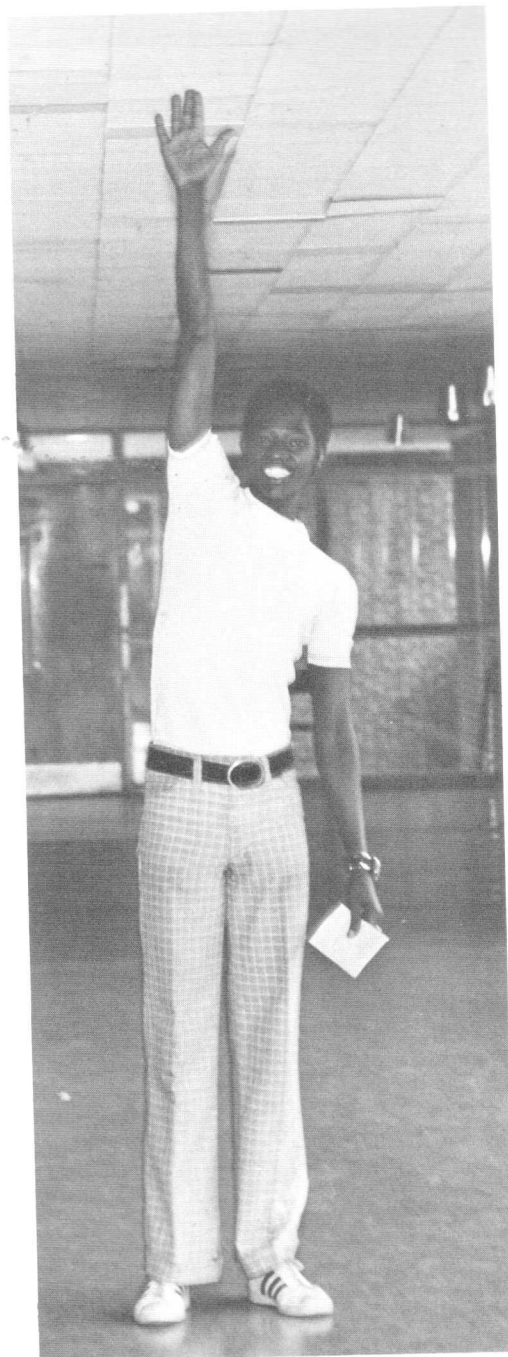

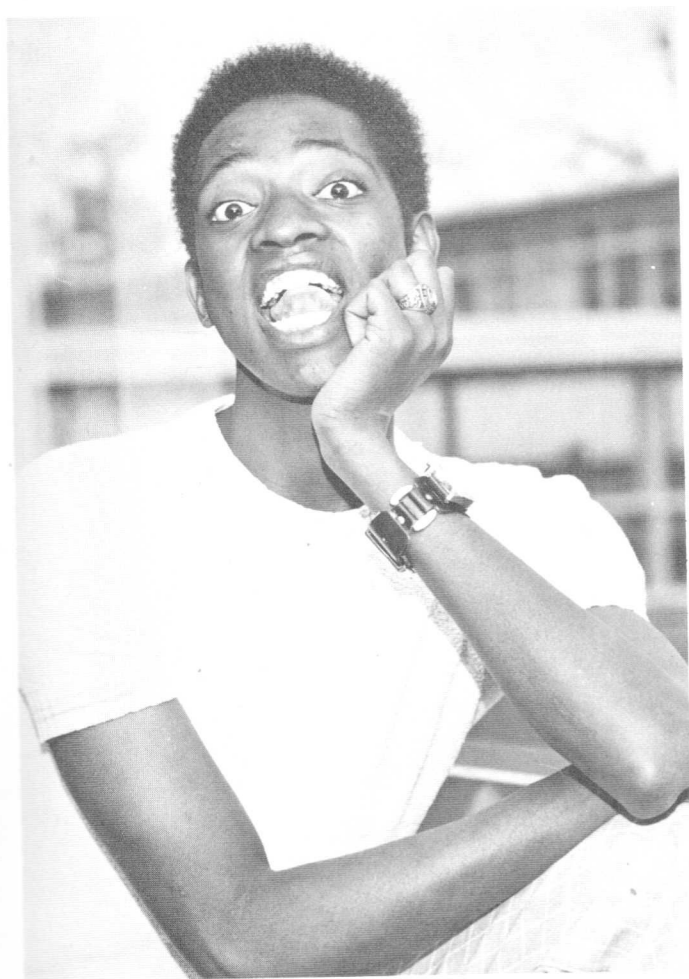

We wish to express our deep gratitude to these two individuals for their time and effort and we hope they have much happiness and success in the coming years.

AFS Student

Although this year's American Field Service exchange student was known to almost everyone as Kelly, he did not come to Natick from Ireland. Kilenga Ernest N'tagosea was chosen from among some 200 students of Uganda, Africa to attend Natick High. At 6'4" (and still growing), Kelly was impressed with the size of Natick High and the feeling was mutual. The school was different from the boarding school he had attended in Uganda, which was not coed and only half the size of Natick High. There was also the absence of uniforms, a strict all-male faculty and lunch periods lasting an hour and a half, which were some of the characteristics of Kelly's former school. Kelly managed to fit right in from the beginning, playing for our varsity soccer team and offering Swahili lessons to interested students after school.

Although the cold, snowy weather was not a welcome experience, it was one of the many unexpected surprises for Kelly while he was staying here. He pointed out differences between his culture and ours in both our customs and language. For example, in his country, the young people do not remain at home as long as they do here. Also, after finishing high school, a student in Uganda must pass a qualifying exam in order to further his education. Since Kelly already passed this exam, he received only a certificate of attendance from Natick High.

Kelly would jokingly argue about some of the customs and which country did them the "right way" such as who laced their shoes right, or who drove on the correct side of the road, or whether suspenders were more logically called "braces". Kelly's welcome smile and friendly manner will be greatly missed by many of us but he left us with a very important lesson that all of us will remember. On Class Day, when he presented us with his gift of a flag from Uganda, he told us that from his experiences here, he found that no matter where one comes from, people are basically the same. We thank Kelly for bringing some of his culture into our lives, but most of all we are grateful for his friendship.
